Description Modern "Web" added feature to allow page to specify other pages to be prerendered before they are opened in the browser. This might or might not be an issue to user freedom and script blocking. If problematic, prerendering will need to be blocked.

Blocking prefetching (as is done on pages without scripts enabled for <#20>) makes prerendering impossible. While it doesn't seem like there should be an issue, in any case, the prefetch ban can always be made universal.
