Description
Typical scenario for running Hydrilla would be through Apache/Nginx running as a reverse proxy on the same host. Thus, Hydrilla should be able to block requests coming from somewhere else than 127.0.0.1/32 (or somewhere else than 192.168.0.0/16 or 10.0.0.0/8, etc. if someone prefers to run the proxy on another host).
